Yesterday a cablegram was received by Mr. Wright from Antwerp, a copy of which was sent to Dr. Jenkins this morning, advising him to deny all rumors of cholera there and solated cases of cholerine there. Dr. Edson, Dr. Bryant and President Wilson, of the Health Department, are all in favor of the prohibition of immigration even under the present circumstances, for they believe that the introduction of Asiatic choiera here would be the most deplorable event which could possibly happen to the people of this country.

Disease germs are invariably carried about by immigrants whenever an epidemic is prevalent, and if the scourge reaches this country it will undoubtedly be transmitted in this way. Every precaution, therefore, which will tend to avert this danger is justifiable, and the question of prohibiting immigration here now becomes one of such importance that within a very few days it is probable that some decisive steps will be taken in this coulcing the country of the probable that some decisive steps will be taken in this coulcing.

It was quite plain to Custom Louse official that the Government had been systematicallyand peristently defrauded and that the loss during the period in question was between the frauds extended back several years, but the examiners could not go back of Aug. 1 1891, because of a curious omission in the law bearing on the case. The old law provided that in a suit the Government could recover the goods, " or the value thereof," but in the new law that wen into effect last August, the quoted clause was "Mrs." Borden. They appeared to be per- omitted, leaving possible only a recovery of He Says She Has Walked All Over Small Prospect of Italian Opera This The American Express Official Got the property.

The alleged frauds were easily accompilshed, it is said, by the importers paying the weighers to make out their returns for less than the actual weights. While the investigation is not yet concluded, it is expected that several arrests will be made in a day or two. Special Agent Whitehead this morning de-

"To illustrate: the importer sells a hogehead of rough sugar to the renner, who scrapes and steams the hogshead thoroughly and obtains every grain of sugar in the wood, or if the sugar is in bags every grain that is in its meshes. Oftentimes, too, particles of barrels or bags are left in the sugar and increase its weight. The Government doesn't bother with this, but the reliner does and he really gets more sugar than the importer charges him for.

"Now, then, the Custom-House people have their record of the amount of raw sugar imported during the eight months in question. They compare figures with the reinners—not the importers—and find that the formers figures are let access of their own. Hence the shortage and that Government weighes and importers weighers can never agree, and it is equally curious that the Government never useovers cases where importers are overcharged. I can see no reason for this investigation unless it is to raise a campaign fund."
